The perfect wedding favor idea does not have to be expensive at all. There are many different ways you can go in regards to wedding favors. In this article I will look at a few wedding favor ideas, and hopefully give you some that express you, for your own wedding.

If you want to you can follow what the theme of your wedding is and have the wrapping for the wedding favor match the color in your wedding. All your guests would know that whatever favor you choose you took time in decorating the favor.

If you want something personalized looking at some wedding favor websites will help you get a few ideas. One idea would be personalize your favorite cd. If your a chef personalize a spoon and give it as a wedding favor. These are two examples of something that is not expensive to give.

If you love food this offers many different great party favor ideas for your wedding guests. Here are 3 you could build off of.

- You could use cookies and almost any one of any age loves cookies.

- Chocolate offers many different directions you could go on a wedding favor. You can buy in bulk and package it anyway you want. Plus it will appear you spent more time on it than you actually did, which is great for p.r. as well.

- If you love fruit there are many arrangements available that would make your guests happy. Remember they are here for your wedding, but you are thanking them with this gift.

Plus you are giving a wedding favor that is healthy.

When you decide what kind of favor you want on the tables you also want to make sure they know who you and your partner are so add a little bit of you guys into the favor.

Write a little thank you note on a card, or put your anniversary picture on the favor so they have always have it.

You can find craft paper at craft stores and make something attractive with it. Google search the words "wedding favors using craft paper" to come up with all kinds of ideas. Pick one that is uniquely you.

Wedding favor ideas are endless when you think about who you and your partner are. Find one that shows what you enjoy in life, and what brought you to together. Just keep it simple and within your budget and you should find the most unique party favor for your wedding.
